

HOW ARE THE FUNDS USED?

Funds raised through the BCS Career Fair allow us to enhance technology resources and support opportunities for students such as participation in a variety of academic and professional events, including field trips and competitions, which reinforce the studio experience.

The Building Construction Science Program, one of only two studio-based construction programs in the nation, prepares graduates for careers in construction or construction-related fields through an immersive, integrative, collaborative, and transformational education. Graduates manage both construction projects and the business of construction. The interdisciplinary curriculum provides a broad knowledge base in business, engineering, and construction sciences.
