BUILDING CONSTRUCTION
SCIENCE PROGRAM

Building Construction Science Program

By means of a problem-based learning andragogy that uses case studies, precedents, and the integration of multiple subject areas, the Building Construction Science Program will arm graduates with a clearly defined management skill set as they prepare for careers in construction or construction-related fields where effective decision making, problem solving, and multiple forms and levels of management are required.

College of Architecture, Art, and Design

The mission of the College of Architecture, Art, and Design is to promote and engage students and faculty in the following: conceptualization, craft, media and technology, history and theory, aesthetics, and ethical issues associated with making artifacts in the world.

Mississippi State University

Mississippi State University is a public, land-grant university whose mission is to provide access and opportunity to students from all sectors of the state's diverse population, as well as from other states and countries, and to offer excellent programs of teaching, research, and service.

Enhancing its historic strengths in agriculture, natural resources, engineering, mathematics, and natural and physical sciences, Mississippi State offers a comprehensive range of undergraduate and graduate programs; these include architecture, the fine arts, business, education, the humanities, the social and behavioral sciences, and veterinary medicine.

The university embraces its role as a major contributor to the economic development of the state through targeted research and the transfer of ideas and technology to the public, supported by faculty and staff relationships with industry, community organizations, and government entities.

Building on its land-grant tradition, Mississippi State strategically extends its resources and expertise throughout the entire state for the benefit of Mississippi's citizens, offering access for working and place-bound adult learners through its Meridian Campus, Extension, and distance learning programs.

Mississippi State is committed to its tradition of instilling among its students and alumni ideals of diversity, citizenship, leadership, and service.

SCIENCE PROGRAM

Mississippi State University's Building Construction Science Program, one of only two studio-based construction programs in the nation, prepares graduates for careers in construction or construction-related fields through an immersive, integrative, collaborative, and transformational education. Graduates manage both construction projects and the business of construction. The interdisciplinary curriculum provides a broad knowledge base in business, engineering, and construction sciences.
